Port Hueneme Cannabis Dispensaries Donate $32,500 to Habitat for Humanity of Ventura County in Support of Port Hueneme Affordable Housing Development

The donations will help five local, low-income families realize the dream of homeownership

PORT HUENEME, Calif. – Nov. 2, 2020 – Skunkmasters, HPC, From the Earth, Wheelhouse, Safe Port and Tradecraft, all Port Hueneme-based cannabis dispensaries, joined with Habitat for Humanity of Ventura County (HFHVC) on Monday for a check presentation at HFHVC’s new Port Hueneme job site. The site, currently an empty lot, will be the location of five new townhomes, which HFHVC will build in partnership with five local, low-income families. HFHVC will break ground on the homes in the next week. The dispensaries’ combined $32,500 donation will provide direct support for the project.

“In times like these, with the pandemic shining an even brighter light on California’s affordable housing shortage, support from the business community is especially important,” said Darcy Taylor, C.E.O. of HFHVC. “So many families are struggling to remain housed, and many have found themselves without housing. We’re deeply grateful to the Port Hueneme cannabis dispensaries for stepping up and supporting our newest development, which will bring financial stability and upward mobility to five more deserving families.”

“Our cannabis dispensaries in Port Hueneme are determined to show that they are key stakeholders in making a recognizable difference in our community,” said Police Chief Andrew Salinas, who helped organize this event. “These contributions will help families to realize their dream of homeownership, enhance their quality of life, and help us build stronger neighborhoods.”

The owners of the Port Hueneme cannabis dispensaries that donated plan to return to the job site in the coming months to help build the homes alongside HFHVC's newest partner families and other volunteers.
